PROTECT YOUR WATERCRAFT

SHARK TOOTH

is a small business based out of Portland, OR. They manufacture and sell small plastic “teeth” which are used to prevent marine mammals, specifically sea lions, from boarding seacraft and docks. One “tooth” is made up of five pyramid-shaped spikes on a flat base, made from recycled #2 plastic. These teeth are attached to a clear vinyl mat which can be both secured and removed to or from any surface easily by use of a rope system. When deployed, Sharktooth™ makes surfaces uncomfortable (but not unsafe) for large marine animals to lay on top of, preventing them from lounging on boats and rafts docked in the water. A few sea lions could easily sink a small boat or raft, but Sharktooth™ can prevent this from happening.
